PROFILE

Bryant Welch has over 16 years of comprehensive eDiscovery experience as an attorney and project manager and has navigated the intricate landscape of legal discovery with precision and expertise. With a focus on accuracy and efficiency, he employs the latest eDiscovery technologies and workflows to manage discovery projects for complex litigation and government investigations.

Prior to joining Axinn, Bryant was an eDiscovery Case Manager at the FDA where he managed eDiscovery and litigation hold activity for legal matters including FOIA requests and civil and criminal litigation. Before that, he was an eDiscovery Project Manager at a leading integrated legal services provider in Washington, DC.

Bryant earned his JD from Suffolk University Law School and holds an undergraduate degree in English from Georgetown University.
