On August 26, Axinn partner Dan Oakes will speak on “The Evolution of Collective Reinforcement in Antitrust Litigation: Strategies and Trends Across Borders” at the International Association of Young Lawyers’ International Young Lawyers’ Congress, being held August 25-30 in Washington, DC.

Panelists will:

- Examine the rise of third-party funding in antitrust litigation;
- Discuss the ethical considerations of third-party funding in relation to antitrust litigation, including the implications of having a third-party funder participate in strategy and decision making; and
- Discuss practical challenges of the use of third-party funding, such as the impact of having third-party funders in relation to the attorney-client privilege.
