Axinn today announced its 2026 Chambers USA rankings, including continued Band 1 rankings for New York Antitrust and Connecticut Intellectual Property as well as a new department ranking for Washington, D.C., Intellectual Property: Litigation, reflecting the firm's growing IP footprint.

In the 2026 Chambers USA Guide, Chambers noted that Axinn is a highly respected firm with “broad strength in corporate and litigious work” and “adept at counseling clients through complex merger control issues.” Chambers also noted Axinn’s “strong intellectual property practice leveraged in litigation at the cross-section of IP and antitrust.”

The guide also quoted clients who said: “[Axinn] has deep legal expertise, tremendous experience and great relationships with regulators.”

The results also include four new or elevated individual rankings. Bradley Justus and Daniel Oakes each advanced to ranked positions in Antitrust; Craig Reiser earned a new individual ranking in Antitrust; and Aziz Burgy received a new individual ranking in Intellectual Property.

“These rankings reflect the strength and depth of what our teams are delivering for clients every day,” said firm Managing Partner Jeny Maier. “Our antitrust practice is exceptionally sought-after, supporting major transactions and litigation. The new recognition for our IP practice in Washington, D.C., reflects our growth and integration across offices. We appreciate our clients' trust and take immense pride in our team's dedication that has led to these impressive results.”
